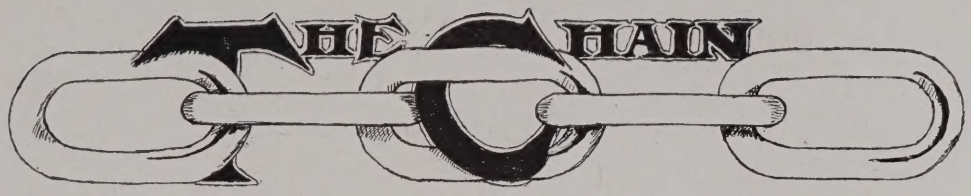
Foreword

ALTHOUGH we, of the Class of 1923, have had little experience in the production of literary masterpieces, we have endeavored to add another link to the chain of our High School annuals. Because the former links of The Chain have been masterpieces, we have tried to follow their example and live up to our school motto.

We hope that these pages will be sincerely enjoyed and appreciated, and that they will bring back fond memories to those who attended C. H. S. during the session of 1922-23.

To our readers we present this, the fifth link of The Chain.

The Editors.



The Orange and the Black

Altho' other schools have favored
The violet's dark hue,
And the gentle sons of Lynchburg
To the blue and white are true,
We will own our well-loved colors,
Nor honor shall they lack
While the High School stands defender
Of the Orange and the Black.

Thro' the four long years of school life,
'Midst the scenes we know so well,
As the mystic charm to knowledge
We vainly seek to spell;
Or we win athletic victories
On the football field or track,
Still we'll work for dear old High School,
And the Orange and the Black.

When the cares of life o'ertake us,
Mingling fast our locks with gray,
Should our dearest hopes betray us,
False fortune fall away,
Still we'll banish care and sadness
As we turn our mem'ries back
And recall those days of gladness
'Neath the Orange and the Black.

I gazed into the burning fire,
An image did I see:
Old Father Time was standing there,
He seemed to speak to me.

He looked at me with a pitying smile,
Then said in accents low,
"The time has come, as all times do,
For you, my child, to go.

To go out into the world beyond,
And tread your separate way,
To wish your merry comrades luck,
And face a newer day."

A sob arose, as I realized
That sad fact, more and more;
Oh, friends, 'tis hard to tell you now
Our high school days are o'er.

And so, dear School, we bid good-bye,
But leave our hearts with thee.
May honor and praise and love be thine
From the Class of '23.

The Four-Year Campaign of the Class of 1923

FOR THE CONQUEST OF SCHOLARSHIP

(With Apologies to Julius Cæsar.)

Book I.

ALL High School life is divided into four parts: one in which the Freshmen begin their activities; another in which the Sophomores are most interested; the third part, the Juniors; and the fourth part, those who in their own language are called Seniors, but in the language of the other classes, are known as the most envied in all school life. All these differ from one another in knowledge, dignity, and attainments.

The Class of '23 started its four-year campaign in the early autumn of the year of our Lord 1918, with plenty of undeveloped material, for a successful conquest, although just as ignorant and green as any Freshman class ever witnessed by old C. H. S. This queer-looking bunch—for they presented without doubt a peculiar appearance at that time—assembled soon after their admission into the new field, and proceeded to elect a captain in whom they had unlimited confidence, and who should lead the determined warriors in their quest. In the midst of an uproar that plainly showed their earnestness, they elected this captain, as has been said before, in the person of Lawrence Brown.

He was a worthy leader who commanded the untrained army well. Although this first year witnessed no great deeds, the warriors received such training and absorbed such a great amount of school spirit, that they waited eagerly for the second year of the campaign, scheduled to begin after a three months' furlough.

Book II.

Upon reassembling after the above mentioned furlough, they noticed that some had become weary and had dropped out, while a few volunteers had streamed in. As was their custom, they proceeded to choose a captain, and reëlected Mr. Brown, who had already proved himself worthy.

During this year two new campaigns were successfully launched. One of these was the Boosters' Club, organized for the extension of fighting spirit, and to look after the financial problems that always confront certain departments of the army. The other was a system of assemblies, put into effect by Mr. Hayes, our ever alert General, who saw that the army needed necessary information. This was highly pleasing to all, as it offered a short period of recreation. Members of this band also took an active part in literary organizations and athletics. Thus the second year closed with the soldiers more skilled in all the branches of army tactics. The captain then led his army into summer quarters.

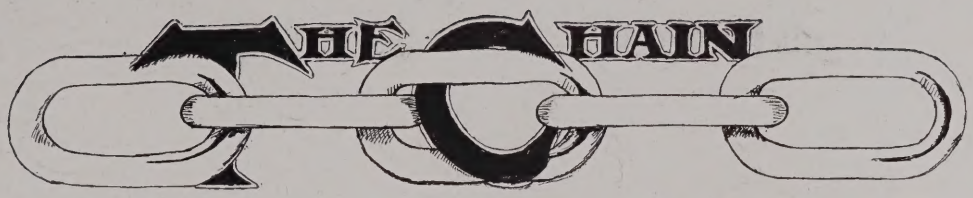
Book III.

At the beginning of the third year of the conquest, the soldiers witnessed their leader push forward and join the class that reaches the goal one year ahead of them. So they decided that one of the fairer sex could serve them as captain. After considering the army's strength, Miss Elinore Page was chosen.

This year saw the regiment striving for supremacy, as they equaled their predecessors in wisdom and took their places among the leaders in the different departments of the army. A volunteer had joined the army at the beginning of the year, namely, Mr. Ray Johnson, who became a worthy soldier in literary fields, and sacrificed much time and energy in preparing the Bumble Bee, which was a pamphlet used to amuse the soldiers between battles. Those decorated for bravery in the physical department were Frances Jones, Sam Eddins, Floyd Lacy, and Jimmie Leitch.

Book IV.

When the last year of the campaign opened, Miss Madeline McMurdo was chosen captain and action started off with a bang as the Seniors gained complete control of the situation and applied energetically and willingly their minds and bodies.



A few individuals were at their best in this era. Whenever the army was trapped and almost in the hands of the enemy, Ed. Joachim would always deliver it to safety by figuring out the escape mathematically. The news of the army's success was always scattered about over a wide expanse of territory through the editorship of Ray Johnson. Between battles Jimmie Leitch was ever giving exhibition of his physical ability, and showing how valuable it was to the army. Whenever the soldiers seemed discouraged they were always boosted by Sam Eddins, who aroused their spirit throughout the conquest. At times, debates were staged between different companies, and Roselle Rowe, Mary Via, and Frances Long were easily the best debaters.

And so it happened that nearly every soldier was awarded a large piece of paper, certifying that he or she had served in a successful conquest.

FRANK COWLES, Historian.

Prophecy

IT had been a successful day, as successful days go. The morning mail had brought a very material proof of the popularity of the "best seller," and the second chapter of my next novel was lying in my desk. It had dealt with school life and many recollections of my own school days filled my mind as I turned to receive the evening mail. A letter from my editor, one from home, and a paper—that was all. The paper almost went into the waste basket before the word "Midway" caught my attention. I opened it—Midway Student, March, 1934. It was published in Charlottesville, the home of my high school days. Eagerly I scanned the column, Alumni News, where I found the names of the Senior Class of 1923. This was the first news I had about some of them since our school days, and I was delighted that the years had brought to them success and honor.

Coming events cast their shadows before! Garth Fitzhugh was President of the University of Virginia. Ray Johnson, former assistant on the Bumble Bee Staff, was editor of the New York Times, while Nella Young wrote "Helpful Beauty Hints" for the woman's page. Jimmie Leitch had charge of the new spelling department at Harvard. Lucky Harvard! Frances Jones, Louise Leachman, Virginia Martin, Stafford Blake, and Marshall Kent, each an artist in his own sphere, were making a concert tour of Europe. Cornelia Dickinson, a foreign missionary to India, was vamping the followers of Ghandi. Lionel Key was president of the C. and O. Railroad. That accounts for smokeless tunnels and shock absorbers. Oh, the joy of a trip over the C. and O.! Doris Hankins was reproducing Paris gowns in New York, with Ann Cloud and Lindsay Carter as assistants. Bob Theimer was posing for Arrow Collar advertisements. Even good looks are commercialized these days. Wilton Griffith was getting rich smuggling patent medicines into the United States. Roselle Rowe and Frances Long, shining lights of Literary Society days, were successful lawyers, divorce cases being their specialty. Hollins Randolph was the owner of a large cattle ranch. Madeline McMurdo, "a second Daniel come to judgment," had taken Miss Moran's place at Midway. Sam Eddins, by words and example, advocated on the lecture platform, "Well-rounded Citizenship." Mary Hughes was instructress of "How To Get Thin To Music." Kingley Greaves and Lucille Gianniny were her most ardent pupils and Woodsie Edwards wound the Victrola. I was sorry to read that Connie Disney, the famous actress, had succumbed to overwork. She was a patient at Frances Bruffey's hospital in New York, where Almond Carter, Mary Robinson, Lola Taylor, and Dorothy Wheeler were nursing. A famous School of Elocution had been established at Charlottesville under the direction of Dorothy Ballard. Wilmer Maughs was captain of the new ocean liner, Sarepta, christened last October by Emma Hoff. Among his crew were Paul Mustard, Carl Stacy, Cecil and Lewis Johnson, and Lee and Daniel Hoff. Grace Omohundro and Evelyn Coleman demonstrated for the Underwood Typewriter Company. Ed Joachim was surveying Patterson's Mountain for a suitable location, far distant from trains, for a new High School building. He has become Dr. Johnson's rival in planning perfect school buildings. Harry Baptist, a doctor at the University Hospital, was supporting Bertha Cleland's Undertaking Establishment. Harper and Meriwether were aviators. Prices are still going up, it seems. Russell Mooney had a prosperous hot dog stand at Coney Island. Marguerite Head was giving a correspondence course in vamping. Agnes Teel, one of her graduates, was a prominent society leader. Mary Turner Tilman was in France with her husband, the Ambassador. Elsie Woodward and Helen Verlander were broadcasting piano concerts. Garnett Savin, Nelson Brown and Herbert Bonavita were agents for a new brand of Salted Nuts. Among those who had acquired great domestic efficiency were Kathleen Sims, Ola Thomas, Josephine Lucas, and Virginia Brooks. Ernest Wheeler was driving a bus to and from Staunton. Ivy Carter had put Rodolph Valentino in the shade as the world's greatest lover on the screen. Charlotte Barger, Lucie Baber, Blanche Craig, Cedora Bunch, Mason Perkins, Mae Stubbs, Lorena Wood, and Gaynell Woodward had signed life contracts with Mac Sennet. Irva Jessup, Louise Coleman, Lillian Dillard and Evelyn Colthurst were teaching school. Frank Cowles and Warren Via were rivalling each other for Billy Sunday's reputation.

For the sake of such news items as these I resolved to subscribe to the Midway Student, and humming softly to myself "Old Charlottesville High," I went back to my novel.

MARY VIA, Prophetess.

The Last Will and Testament of the Class of 1923

WE, the Graduating Class of the Charlottesville High School, in the city of Charlottesville, in the Commonwealth of Virginia, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and twenty-three, being in sound health, both of mind and body, do hereby write and publish this, our last will and testament, in order that the Faculty and Student Body may keep these bequests as reminders of the Class of '23.

ITEM I. To our beloved Superintendent, Dr. Jolly Good Johnson, we will a day which is thirty-six hours long, the extra twelve hours to be used for himself, for we feel that there is not a minute in his day which he does not use in planning for our progress and happiness.

ITEM II. To Mr. Wonderful Joking Hayes, we will an immaculate school yard and a new clapper for his bell.

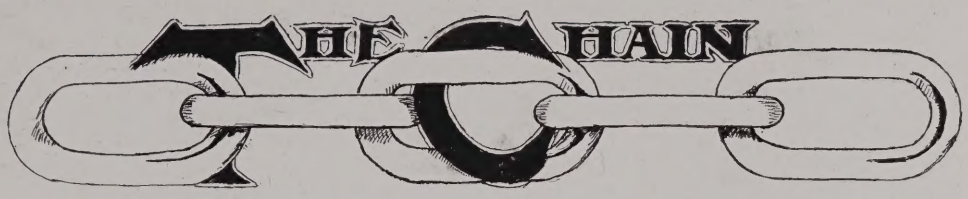
ITEM III. To Miss Sincerely Aristocratic Moran, we will a rubber stamp bearing her initials, "S. A. M.," in order that she may save time enough to eat her lunch.

ITEM IV. To Miss Little Eisenberg, we will a nice flapperish future, with many "Great Times" every day.

ITEM V. To Miss Patient Willoughby, we will a Professorship at the University of Arizona and in the future we hope she will become the president of that institution.

ITEM VI. To Miss Merry Struthers, we will some English IV classes who have read Scott's Ivanhoe.

ITEM VII. To Mr. Masterful Dick, we will some knickers to wear with his golf socks, also, two class periods a week reserved for feasts.



ITEM VIII. To Miss Mischievous Torrence, we will a mirror and a large box of powder.

ITEM IX. To Mr. Judicious Tignor, we will a History IV Class undisturbed by the winds.

ITEM X. To Miss Nice Sheppe, we will a big box of dates to be shared with Mr. Dick during recesses.

ITEM XI. To Mr. Flirty Daniels, we will a new hat and a book on "Exemptions in Typewriting."

ITEM XII. To Miss Intelligent Sloan, we will a ticket to Cuba in an aeroplane, also, some members for her Spanish Club who can sing.

ITEM XIII. To Miss Nonchalant Boaz, we will a long and happy life as a school teacher, since she has made such a youthful beginning.

ITEM XIV. To Mr. Joyful Snapp, we will an automatic time giver and a roomful of Champion Spellers like this year's Seniors in "35."

ITEM XV. To Miss Academic Crawley, we will excellent debaters for the L. L. S.

ITEM XVI. To Miss Amiable Hankins, we will a room of her own full of live ones.

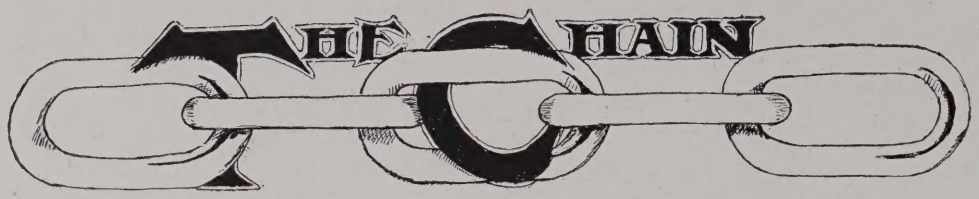
ITEM XVII. To Mrs. Reliable Fuller, we will our best wishes for her success in typewriting.

ITEM XVIII. To Miss Legible Rowlett, we will a dictograph which continually doth repeat, "One, two, three, four."

ITEM XIX. To Mr. Watchful Lacy, we will a class that does not ride the saw, and two bushels of feathers.

ITEM XX. To Miss Industrious Dawson, we will a private room in which to hold her classes without interruptions.

ITEM XXI. To Mrs. Dependable Brown, we will a half-dozen Spanish Classes of perfect pupils.



ITEM XXII. To Mrs. Efficient Sanders, we will an alarm clock to aid her in getting to school on time.

ITEM XXIII. To Miss Modern Allen, we will many successful conquests.

ITEM XXIV. To Mrs. Interesting McCue, we will our best wishes for a long and happy life.

ITEM XXV. To the Juniors, we will our desks in Rooms 35 and 36 with all the privileges and honors attached thereto.

In order that the terms of this will may be carried out to the letter, we appoint Mr. Payne Carroll and Mr. Harvie Williams as executors, because they have proved their loyalty and faithfulness to C. H. S. by remaining long after their regular school hours.

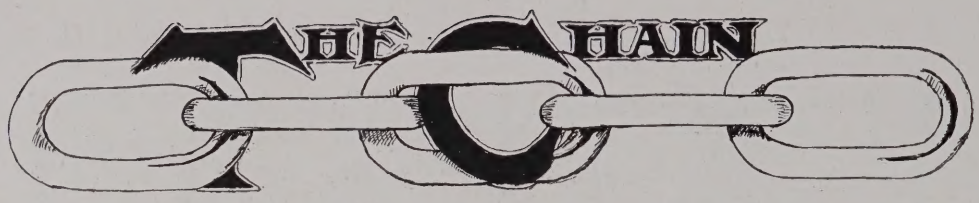
Election Returns



To the Juniors

(A Senior Toast)

Nineteen hundred
And twenty-three,
You are here
And so are we,
Oh, Joy!

Nineteen hundred
And twenty-four,
You will come,
But we, no more!
Oh, Woe!

And the present
Is the time
To make that
Coming year sublime.
We strive,

That this class
E'er may be
Good and happy,
Brave and free.
And so,

Nineteen hundred
And twenty-four,
You may come,
But evermore
We'll be true

To our Ideals,
Hopes and Prayers.
Here's few sorrows
And few cares
To you!

Arcady—Seniorism

(A Sophomore Dream)

It seems a fairy, far-off land,
    Where purple shadows dwell
Beneath cool, friendly, towering trees,
    And bubbling clear springs well.
Needles of pine o'er the path are spread,
    They shed a faint perfume
Which mingles with the sunbeams' gold
    That penetrates the gloom.
We mortals cannot reach this place,
    This magic Arcady,
Where fairies dance and pixies play——
    For they immortals be.

Thus Seniorism seems to be
    A land of dreams afar,
For Seniors live on pedestals,
    They envied, honored are.
Yet there's for us one difference
    Betwixt this country fair
And Seniorism—for you see,
    Two years, then we'll be there!

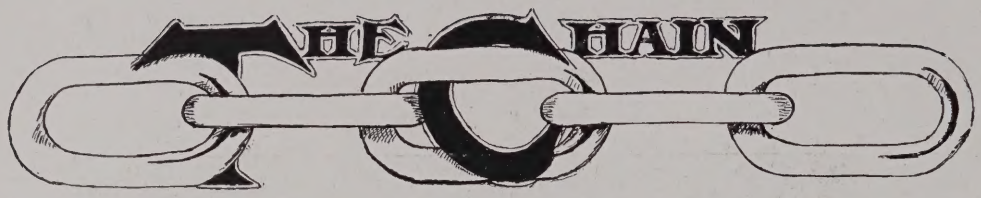
Sophomores



The Class of '26

We are the Freshmen of Charlottesville High,
But we'll be Seniors by and by.
O'er and o'er we shout and roar:
"We're banging and knocking at Wisdom's door."

Some o' these days we'll all be wise;
You'll stare and stare in utmost surprise.
For in '26 we'll go marching by
As Graduating Class of Charlottesville High.

History of the Spanish Club

"EL CLUB ESPANOL" of the Charlottesville High School was organized September 5, 1922. The first meeting was held at the home of Miss Isabel Sloan.

The purpose of the Club is to promote interest in and to increase the knowledge of the spoken Spanish. A great deal tending toward this purpose has already been accomplished. A number of songs, short plays, and dialogues have been memorized and successfully acted. The meetings are held every two weeks at the homes of the members or at the Midway High School. Membership is based on scholarship and enthusiasm for the spoken language. Our Club now has eighteen active members and a total of eight meetings has been held. "El Club Español" plans to stage a public performance some time during the latter part of the spring term.

Acknowledgment is here made of the untiring efforts and splendid enthusiasm of Misses Crystal Brown, Mary Gochnauer, and Emma Hoff.

School Songs

Graduates' Farewell

I

How sad 'mid the sunshine that gladdens this scene
Comes the thought that to-day we must part;
That the bond which affection will ever hold dear
Must be severed to-day in the heart!
That we'll meet in this home of our childhood no more
As we lovingly meet to the last,
And that never again in this time-bounded shore
May unite in the songs of the past.

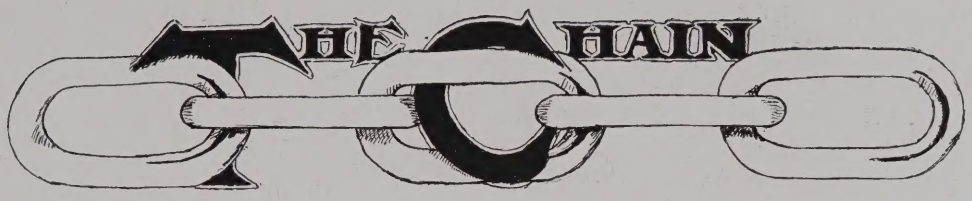
II

But fondly our thoughts will return to the spot
On the wings of remembrance borne up,
And our hearts will rejoice as we cherish the lot
That permits us to drink of this cup.
Then farewell to our school, and farewell to our friends
That have lightened our journey with love.
Tho' to-day we must part yet our prayers will ascend
That our school be united above.

Hail and Farewell

I

Hail and farewell, dear companions,
Friends that we know to be true,
The past with its rosy to-morrows,
Days when our sorrows were few;
Sweet be the lay of the song-bird,
Fragrant the flower on our way,
Lovely the dawn of the morning,
Happy the hours of the day,
Crystal the skies bend above us,
Perfumed the earth and the air,
What can our friends, though they love us,
Give us than school days more fair?



II

Then shall our happiness waning,
Chill 'neath the shadow and cloud?
Shall the high heart never daunted,
Low in the ashes be bowed?
Not if Thy words, Divine Master,
Ever our inmost thoughts fill;
Brief is the life Thou hast given,
Love is but doing Thy will,
Kind words are easily spoken,
Endless their echoes may be,
Kind deeds must ever betoken
Hearts that are loyal to Thee.

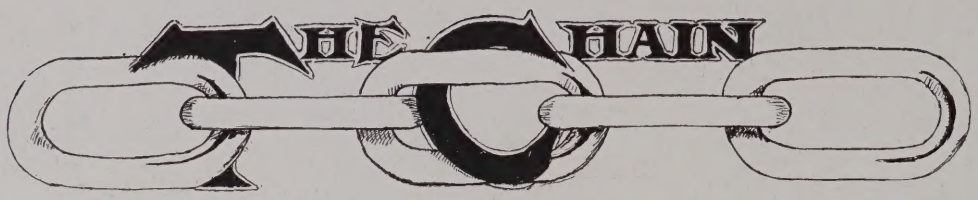
Hail To Our Colors!

The Orange and the Black we'll wear,
Aloft the flag we'll raise,
We'll sound our shouts and sing our songs
For dear old High School's praise.

CHORUS:

Then hail to the Orange and the Black, friends,
The colors we love so well,
Thy loyal sons now salute thee,
As thy folds on the breezes swell,
Then hail to the Orange and the Black, friends,
Forever and a day,
May the Flag of our dear old High School live
Forever and a day.

Let every heart with joy be filled,
And flash with fire each eye,
We'll do our duty man by man,
For dear Old Charlottesville High.



Old Charlottesville High

Here's to you, old Charlottesville High,
For you, any guy would lay down and die,
You betch 'a!
When the rolling waves start to roll,
They roll and they roll, and then they take their toll,
You betch 'a!
When the time for action has come
We'll make things hum hum, well, we will by gum,
You betch 'a!
Know what we'll do, we'll mop up for you,
Old Charlottesville High forever!

Seniors

Hail, hail, hail! we are the Seniors,
Raise our standard to the sky.
For we're boosting our old school
And we're backing every rule,
O! we betch 'a that our fame will never die.

Then look ye back and look ye forward,
Look ye up and look ye down.
O! but never shall you see in this year of '23
Any gang that can touch us in this town.

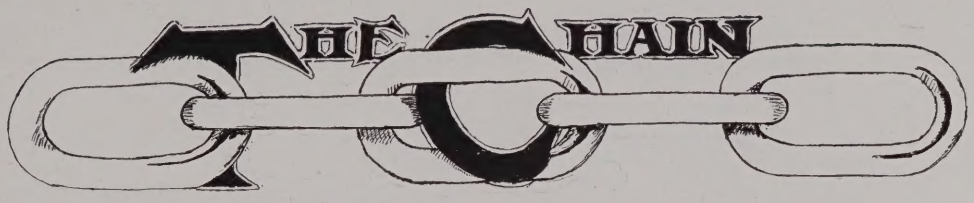
Then hail, hail, hail! we are the Seniors
Of old Charlottesville High.
But there soon will come a day
When we'll have to march away,
O! how sorry we shall be to say good-bye.

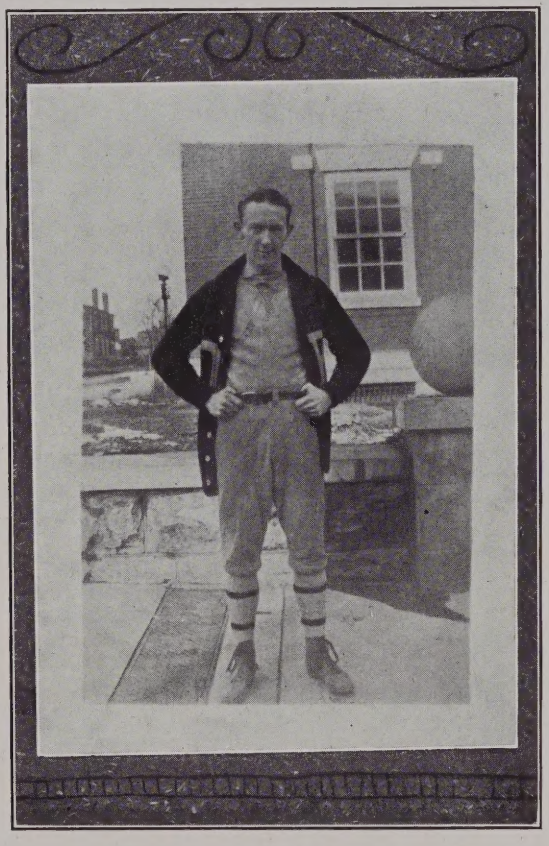
School Yells

Bing-e-ty, bing-e-ty, bing-bang,
Ching-e-ty, ching-e-ty, ching-chang,
Bing-bang, ching-chang,
What do you think of our gang?
Seniors, Seniors, Seniors.

1-2-3-4, 3-2-1-4,
Who you going to yell for?
C-H-A-R-L-O-T-T-E-S-V-I-L-L-E,
That's the way you spell it!
Here's the way you yell it!
C H A R L O T T E S V I L L E ! ! !

ATHLETICS

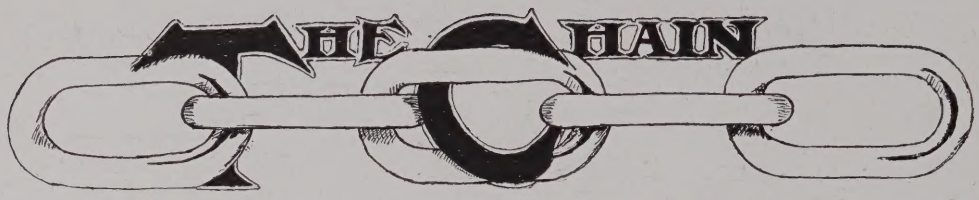




A great part of our success in athletics this year has been due to the interest shown in the High School teams by Coach Daniels.

The football team made a record to be proud of, having won the Championship of Northern and Western Virginia. The basket-ball teams also had a good season, as did also the other branches of athletics in charge of Coach Daniels.

The students of C. H. S. deeply appreciate Mr. Daniels' kindness and willingness in helping them at all times.



Athletics

TAKING everything into consideration the athletic department of C. H. S. for the year of 1922-23 has been exceptionally good. The lack of experienced material, as usual, was one of our greatest drawbacks.

Last year practically all of the football team graduated, so the team this year was composed of nearly all new material. But this material was not "green" by a long shot. They proved this during the season which followed.

Our first game was with Lynchburg and we lost to our old rivals by a 20—0 score. The large score was probably due to the fact that nine players who started the game had never played in a real game of football before. So stage fright may have been one cause of this defeat.

The games which followed this one varied as to scores, sometimes in our favor and sometimes otherwise. By defeating Luray High School we became champions of the Western District of Virginia. C. H. S. was then made to play Alexandria for the Championship of Northern and Western Virginia. According to football "dope" Alexandria was to win this game by at least two touchdowns. However, this "dope" was upset on the evening of November 25th, when C. H. S. became victor in a hard fought battle. Although the score was 13-12, this one-point margin was all that we needed to become champions of the Northern District of Virginia. The fighting spirit of our team plus the Spirit of Charlottesville High won this game for us.

Both basket-ball teams did credit to the High School. Especially is this true of the boys' team, for they played steady, good, hard basket-ball during the whole season. Miss Echols and Miss Darden aided Coach Daniels in putting out a good girls' team. While they did not "mop up" everything that came along, they let their opponents know that they had to play real basket-ball before they could hope to win. The girls had good team work and their passing was especially good.

At the time this book went to press baseball had not started, but from the talk around school the prospects were for a very good season, because quite a few of last years' men were back. Our track team also looked promising for C. H. S., judging from the number of candidates.

So we are looking for as great things at C. H. S. in track and baseball as were accomplished in football and basket-ball.

1923 Statistics

What Has 1922-23 Done For C. H. S.?

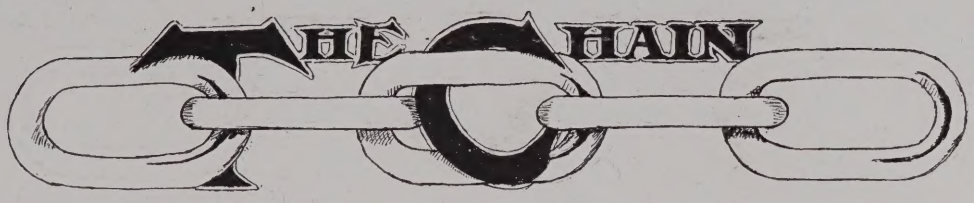
1. Established the Point System to distribute offices.
2. Welcomed Faculty Sponsors into all organizations.
3. Brought about orderly assemblies.
4. Honored the individual making the highest monthly average.
5. Welcomed the first woman member to the School Board.
6. Appointed advertising managers for the games.

Why Is The Class Of 1923 The Greatest Class In The History Of The High School?

1. Because our Sponsor says so.
2. Because we're in it.
3. Because we're quality as well as quantity.
4. Because we're larger than any former Senior Class.
5. Because we stand higher in scholarship than our predecessors.
6. Just because!

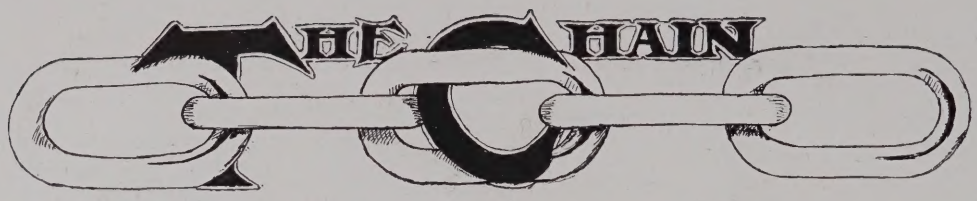
What Shall We, The Seniors, Remember When We Leave C. H. S.?

1. The brilliancy of our chemistry class.
2. Forty minutes.
3. Mr. Hayes' new jokes.
4. Miss Moran's class permits.
5. The G. A. A. stand "eats."
6. Commencement night.



C. H. S. Alphabet

A is for Algebra, hardly called sublime,
B is for Burch, he's always gettin' time.
C is for Cæsar, Miss Eisenberg's pet,
D is for "Dizzy," what she wants, she will get.
E for exams, which are driving us crazy,
F is for "Flunk," it don't pay to be lazy.
G is for girls, they're doing right well,
H is for "Hickey"—Sh! don't any one tell!
I is for Ivy, quite frivolous you see,
J is for Johnson, our Superintendent is he.
K is for Key, who business unlocks,
L is for "Leachy," who wears pretty frocks.
M for Moran, who encourages us all,
N is for Nuts, which we ain't a-tall.
O is for Omohundro, she's almost too bright.
P is for Perkins, who giggles outright.
Q is for Quarles, an intelligent lad,
R is for Randolph, who always looks glad.
S is for Sims, with her promising art,
T is for Teel, she's 'bout got my heart.
U is for "Used-to," a long time ago,
V is for Via, real friendly, you know.
W is for Willoughby, always in the lead,
X is for Unknown, the one that we need.
Y is for You, work with all of your main,
Z is for Zenith, which then you will gain.



The Victim

"BILL, hand me over a turnip."

A crowd of Richmond College boys were lounging as usual in Cody Shanks' room. They had recently discovered a large turnip patch, a little over a mile from the college. Generally one night every week several of the boys would go there and swipe turnips and bring them back to college to be eaten in their rooms.

"I hear that Jimmy Granger and that gang are going after turnips tomorrow night, and I have a wicked idea brewing," said Cody, munching contentedly.

"That's your constant state," replied Bill, "but let's hear it."

"Well, it seems to me it would be a peach of a joke for us to get to the patch before the other fellows get there, and pretend we are the owners and shoot a few shots at the stars."

"Haw, haw!" laughed Fatty. "Wouldn't it be charming to see Tortoise rushing madly back to college?"

"Well, I'll be," said Bill, slapping him on the back, "remarkable wonders! You have sprung one actually."

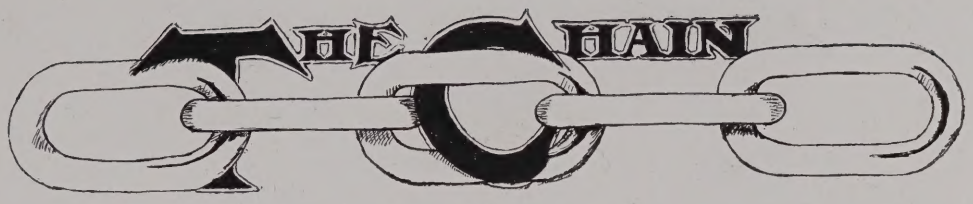
After many plots and much thinking, the joke was entrusted to only seven people who were sworn into secrecy. Naturally it met with their most enthusiastic approval.

The next night promptly at a quarter of nine, seven expectant students placed themselves at different angles about the field. Finally, after a long suspense, which seemed to them like hours, but what was in reality not more than twenty minutes, they heard stealthy footsteps and muttering voices and knew the time was approaching. They waited a few minutes and then Cody yelled out in a gruff voice:

"Hey, there, get off my turnips! I've been watching for you; I thought you would come. You can't fool me again, I'll shoot you, I will."

Bang! Bang! went the two barrels of a shot gun. Bang! Bang! came the echo. Some one screamed and Jimmy Granger cried out in a weak voice:

"Oh, help me! I am hit! I am shot!"



There was no mistaking that moan. Seven flash-lights were immediately focused on the spot. Poor Jimmy lay prostrate in the turnips. No one seemed to remember the joke. Tortoise was the first to break the spell by crying:

"Look! His shirt is all red, and there are holes where the shot must have gone through."

"Fatty," said Cody gravely, "you know the country better than we do. Take Bill with you and go the shortest way possible and have a doctor with all his medicines in Jimmy's room when we get there."

Even Fatty went off without the slightest grumble about walking. Jimmy lying on the ground, with his face ghastly in contrast with his bloody shirt, was a pathetic sight. Apparently he had fainted. However, when they lifted him up he groaned miserably.

Cody said with a choke in his voice: "Poor old Jimmy. I know it hurts you, but try to stand it and it won't be long before we have you comfortable."

Jimmy made some awful gurgling sounds, which frightened them so they had to put him down and let him rest a few minutes.

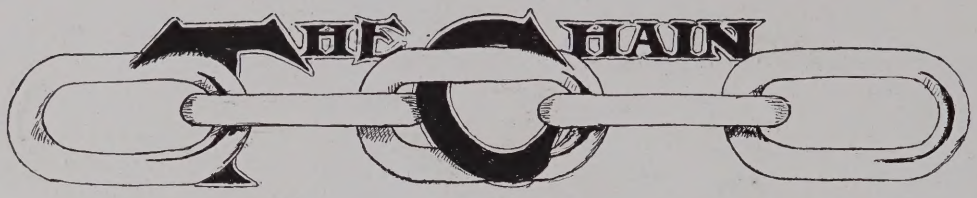
Finally when they were about a quarter of a mile from college, Fatty and Bill met them with two cars and took them the rest of the way. Fatty said he had lost five pounds, but that only caused a hollow laugh.

They laid Jimmy carefully on the bed and the doctor bent over him.

"Oh, I am suffocating," moaned Jimmy. "Make them go out." Silently they filed out with grim faces, except Tortoise, and he stayed because he was Jimmy's special friend.

In about five minutes the doctor opened the door and called them back again. They tiptoed in dismally. To their unutterable surprise and joy, Jimmy was sitting on the bed eating a turnip and grinning cheerfully.

"Well, boys," he said, "this is some doctor, isn't he? But on the other hand, it is not so terribly hard for a doctor to take a shirt covered with red ink and with holes punched in it, off a fellow and put a fresh one on him. Don't look like that, Cody. I can't stand much more after the sympathetic tones of your 'Poor old Jimmy.' 'I know how it hurts.' Oh, dear! I almost had convulsions."



There Tortoise interrupted him: "Cody, the next time you brew a wicked idea, you must pitch your voice on a lower key, when you know that only a thin partition divides you from the ever-listening Tortoise."

"Did you hear us?" cried Fatty in amazement.

"Yes, dumb-bell, I really have ears, along with enough sense to use what I hear."

"But, Fatty, I am deeply sorry for you. You had to run all that way and then didn't even get a laugh over seeing me run!"

Miss Lillian W. Eisenberg

We, the Seniors, wish to reserve this page for Miss Lillian W. Eisenberg, in appreciation of the help she gave us in forging this link of THE CHAIN. Not only did Miss Eisenberg work early and late to compile the necessary material, but she furnished us with many new ideas which went a long way toward making our Annual a success. Here's the thanks and best wishes of the Seniors of 1923 to you, Miss Eisenberg!

THE BUMBLE BEE

There is a Bee in our school
    Which sighs and sighs and sighs,
Since Connie's taking care of it,
    I wonder why it cries?

CLASSROOM HEARSAYS

Many knights attended the carnation of King Arthur.

The Continental Congress met in 1775 to ask Columbus to come to America.

Horatius erat homo fortis.
Horatius went home from the fort.

The Deerslayer got his name because he killed so many dears.

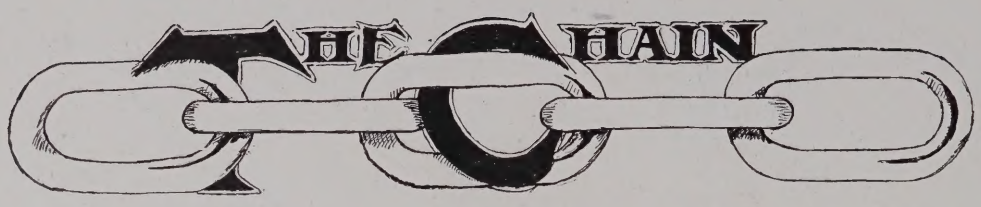
SOME PARADE

Miss Sheppe (in Math class): "Watch the examples going to the board."

Mr. Dick: "What is the Latin race?"
Frances Long: "A race between a Latin pony and a teacher's goat."

Mr. Lacy (in Chemistry): "What is a chemical test?"
Frances Jones: "It's something to see if something is something."

Miss Boaz: "What does e. g. in a book mean?"
Payne: "Something that's easy to get."



Mr. Snapp: "Have a nice vacation?"

"Pie" Mooney: "Yes, but it's nice to be back in class where a fellow can catch up with his lost sleep."

Mr. Hayes (to his first period class): "Some time ago my doctor told me to exercise early every morning with dumb-bells. Will the class please report before breakfast to-morrow morning? Dismissed."

WANTED—ANOTHER JOSHUA

Bertha Cleland wants to know if the 3:10 period will come earlier in the day after exams.

BREAK, BREAK, BREAK!

Miss Eisenberg (to Carl Stacy): "Some one certainly did waste a lot of effort teaching you Algebra! Who in the world taught you?"

Carl: "You did."

(Miss Moran calmed the storm.)

Miss Dawson: "Lucile, haven't you gotten settled yet?"

"Hickey": "I am just getting settled."

Miss Dawson: "How long does it take you to get settled?"

"Hickey": "Oh, about a half period, most generally."

TO P. V. W.

Every day at quarter to ten,
Miss Willoughby meets with several men (and women);
They groan and moan and groan some more,
For there's so much guessing in old Math IV (Trigonometry).

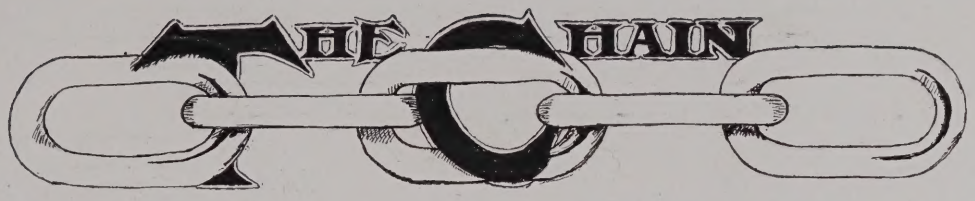
Doris Hankins (to Frances Jones): "I've got a big T. L. for you."

Frances: "Oh, I'm so thrilled! What is it?"

Doris: "Some one said you reminded him of spring."

Frances: "I bet I know who it was, but why did he say it?"

Doris: "Because you're so fresh and green."



DREAMING

Mr. Lacy (calling roll): "Mooney." (No answer.)
Mr. Lacy: "Mooney, are you here?"
Russell: "No, sir."

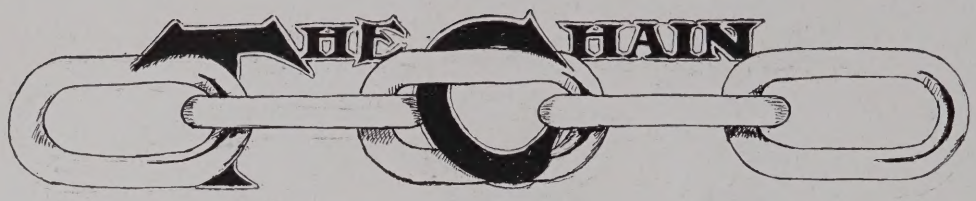
Mr. Tignor: "Now, Randolph, if you have that in your head you have it all in a nut shell."
Hollins: "Yes, sir."

Miss Torrence: "Are you learning anything way back there, Beck?"
Beck: "No, ma'am, I'm listening to you."

A SENIOR TRAGEDY

A Carter and his Young lady friend, a Taylor, have a great Row(e) over the merits of a Balla(r)d. The Carter with every intention of (Mc)-Murdo, Hughes the Taylor in the Head until she becomes Mooney; Thomas, her Maugh's friend, Greaves so Long that he is compelled to Wheeler to a Leitch Via a Craig, a Wood, and many Brooks. This is a rough trip because Thomas watches a Martin and a Teel flying above a Cloud, and Stubbs his toe over some Cowles which the Coleman had just upset when driving Woodward. When they arrive the Leachman can not find his Bunch of Keys to get the Mustard to relieve her pain. He sends his son, Randolph, to Edwards to ask the Price, and says he will Theimer so that she will not suffer from Colthurst, since she is a Baptist. Finally Randolph comes back thru the Wood and says that Edwards has no Mustard. The Carter pulls his Beard and crys, "Take Griffith, the horse, and Joachim to the wagon, and Head towards Jones' at full speed. If Jones has no Mustard, go to Eddins', Jessup the hill, and hurry lest she have Fitz. Hugh, another Carter, having found the Price, arrives before the Cox crow, and they go to their rooms "in the usual order."

Miss Rowlett (to Warren): "Why didn't you hand Sam both halves of that sandwich, then he would have taken the smaller."
Warren: "No! He would have taken both halves."



WHAT'S IN A NAME?

Sam: "Miss Eisenberg, do you have a vacant class next period?"

Craven Sherill: "I dreamt I died last night."
George J.: "What woke you up?"
Craven: "The heat."

Sam (after a few minutes on the gymnasium): "Hollins, feel how sore my arm is."

Mr. Dick: "He was driven to his grave."
Bunny H.: "Sure he was. Did you expect him to walk?"

Mr. Lacy says that steam is water gone crazy from heat.

THE MIDWAY STUDENT

I've been thinking, he's been drinking,
And is sleeping off his spree;
A little prodding, now he's nodding,
He'll wake up in '23.

Quality
IN setting the type, printing, and binding this book, our object was not to see how quickly and cheaply we could produce the publication, but how well it could be done.
Our whole aim in this, as in all our work, is to give the greatest attention to all the details, and produce printing that will be a credit to the institutions from which the publications are issued. Our books will be just as good in the many years to come, when an annual is of greatest value, as they are to-day.
